People from the Carolinas Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi Louisiana and Alabama, skilled in cottor growing, have changed locations, and will next spring put large areas of the fresh soil of Texas into cotton. This is no conaccounts of incomers and their prospects. These papers declare that along with the movers come crowds of colored people, so that help of the skilled kind in cotton growing is assured. Texas has a prom-ising future.

Tue Roman Catholic Church has a last taken action in the matter of its members belonging to the Order of the Patrons Catholics who had joined the Fox Lake Grange in Wisconsin, having been notified by the Bishop that their action in so doing was in direct opposition to the rule of the Church forbidding Catholics to take part in organizations of a secret character. As a natural consequence many members have left the grange, and as it is understood that similar action will be taken by the other prelates in the Northwest, the effect will be a considerable loss of strength to the order.

The revelations concerning the growth of pauperism in New York, recently made by the Secretary of the Social Science es, were both interesting and startling, for they show how widely the evil has spread, and how deficient are the means of relief. We cannot conceive anything more mortifying to American pride than the alleged fact that every twentythird person in the Empire State should uper, and that three generations of that helpless, shiftless class are not seldom to be found in the almshouses. If we continue at such a rate, we fear this so cial disease will become as deep-seated and incurable on this side of the ocean as it is on the other, where it has long become one of the most vexations political problems for the legislator and the philanthropist to solve.

Mr. Bayard offered the following reso-ution, which was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are due, and are hereby tendered, to Hon. Matthew H. Carpenter for the courtesy and ability with which he has presided over our deliberations. Mr. Carpenter replied;

"SEMATORS—I should do injustice to my own feelings if I did not return to you my heartfelt thanks for your kindness at the present session. It's remarkable that the more wa's see of the Constitution of the United States, and the more familiar the United States, and the more familiar we become with its practice, the more we admire the wisdom of its framers. I have, since presiding here by your favor this session come to esteem as I never did before the wisdom of that provision which separates the presiding officer from the members of this body. He who occupies this 'chair, the duties of which are so pearly judicial, ought not to be a Senator, for as a Senator he must more or less participate in debate and take more or less interest in the questions which are pending here, and 'if not suspected by others of partiality fowards those questions in which he takes an interest, he must if in which he takes an interest, he must if he be a right minded man suspect himself of partiality, and it may be, in endeavoring to avoid that, lean too far the other way. I thank you again, gentlemen, for your courtesy, your kindness, the patience with which you have borne errors which It is pretty certain that the financial question will not be an issue in West Virginia politics this fall, inasmuch as all our representatives in both branches of Congress voted for the currency bill.

President, with a list of Vice Presidents.

Mrs. Gage offered the following:

Resided, That as all reforms in this country are at last to have their permanent settlement at the ballot box; and as the only permanent and efficient aid that woman can give to the temperance cause must be through her vote, we therefore look earnestly forward to a recognition of woman's political rights as a means of bringing about the first triumph of the temperance cause.

Referred to the Committee on Resolutions, with Mrs. Gage added to the committee.
